New Town Website Launched for Huntly

Huntly, Aberdeenshire, 9 January 2006 A new website has been launched by Integra Web Design to provide a source of information for visitors and local residents in Huntly and its surrounding district. This has been set up to promote the town as a good destination for holiday-makers, provide a business directory and satisfy a perceived lack of available information. The site is now live at www.huntly-online.com but will be added to and improved over the coming weeks.

Recent developments in the town with the setting up of the Aberdeenshire Towns Partnership have identified a strategy for improving the profile of the town and making it more apparent to both visitors and local residents. The need to provide information on the Internet was part of the Strategy Document published in October 2005.

The site provides details of places to stay, things to see and do around Huntly and aims to list all businesses and shops in the town. It was prompted, in part, by the success of an information leaflet about the town published last year by Finks Publishing and sponsored by local businesses. It also includes an Event calendar where details of upcoming events in the town can be publicised.

The site development has been funded to date by Integra Web Design but it is intended to investigate suitable sponsors for the further development and to provide paid listings for businesses and organisations. Anyone wishing to have their business or organisation included should contact Mike Davies on 01466 700213 or by email to mike@integrawebdesign.co.uk.
